

EXTRA. TALK OF THE TURF.

Scheme to Rob a Newark Pool-Room Given Away by a "Pal."

FLEETWOOD'S RENT RAISED.

Marcus Daly a Candidate for the U. S. Senate-Nelson Reinstated.

A thief, whose ingenuity might serve him well put to a better purpose, a few days ago thought out a scheme whereby he would come innumerable dollars richer at the expense of an East Newark pool-room. He gained access on Sunday to the barracks where Frank McLaughlin displays tempting odds on horse races during the week days. Directly over the cashier's box was a large square calendar. This the thief removed, and with a fine saw he cut out a square piece of wood, large enough to admit a hand and arm. The piece of wood was then placed on the back of the calendar and replaced on its nail. The crank evidently let some of his pal's money into the pool-room, and the pal proved unfaithful and gave the whole thing away to the pool-room proprietor. The latter then calmly awaited developments. He stationed two of his clerks to watch the hole and armed both with revolvers. "The minute you see a hand come through there," he said, "shoot as fast as you can." The thief, however, must have leaped into the game was up for the hand did not appear. The clerks were rather sorry that the thief did not turn up, for they were making bets as to how many bullets they could fire into his hand and arm before they were withdrawn. The patrons of the room missed an exciting time.

The landlord of Fleetwood Park has raised the rent on the New York Driving Club, and the members of the Association are looking harder than a team of football players. Mr. A. Newbold, who controls the property, declared that the taxes and assessments were over $7,000, and to lease the park at $8,000, which has been the yearly rental for many years. The New York Driving Club has been in the hands of the United States Senate from Montana, and as this will keep him in the East a great deal he will probably devote more of his time to racing.

Mr. W. O. R. McDonough, the young owner of Ormonde, has concluded not to allow any outside mare to be bred to the great English stallion. He has refused the request of Mr. Foxhall Keene, who asked to have two glistered mares served by Ormonde. Mr. Keene was willing to pay the fee demanded.

Al Farrow, a great racehorse some years ago, has broken down, and is now quartered at Washington, D. C.

Marcus Daly's ranch in Montana contains 12,000 acres. There are on the place three tracks, and a fine stock farm. Daly has been in the business of breeding and training racehorses for many years. He has been successful in his business, and has a large following of patrons. He is now in the hands of the United States Senate from Montana, and as this will keep him in the East a great deal he will probably devote more of his time to racing.

Vardee had one of his fits on him yesterday. He wouldn't try a yard, and his new owner is looking for a buyer for the horse.

Dan Hoig came up from Gloucester yesterday to see Prince Furthman. He made all his friends put a bet on the son of the Prince. The Prince, however, has no fondness for mud, or any kind, and after going well for seven furlongs threw up the sponge.

"Pa" Bradley had a swell bet on Freezer yesterday. His ticket called for $2,200.

Sir Richard is not the horse he was during the summer. He is slowly, but when once it will be heard to beat.

The plough boys of Messrs. John Campbell, Alex. C. Walker and Henry Schaefer were out for Tasso's prize yesterday. They were out for Tasso's prize yesterday. They were out for Tasso's prize yesterday.

Maurice kept every one guessing up to the last furlong pole in the mile and a half race. At that point the jockey's stirrup webbing broke, and his chances to win faded away into thin air.

The Camden Stable has purchased of Conington the three-year-old filly Clotby by Hankala, dam Clotby.

It is said that Mr. W. O. R. McDonough has engaged Mr. C. Walker to ride for him next season at a salary of $5,000. The lad can ride at 30 pounds.

J. G. Folliott has sold to H. A. Houli the three-year-old gelding, by W. A. Houli, dam by Kingmaker, by W. A. Houli, dam by Kingmaker, by W. A. Houli, dam by Kingmaker.

The members of the Lake County Jockey Club have been out for Tasso's prize yesterday. They were out for Tasso's prize yesterday. They were out for Tasso's prize yesterday.

The board of review of the National Trotting Association has decided to suspend the great trotting stallion Nelson and his owner, C. H. Nelson. The latter is reinstated on condition of good behavior.

"Polo Jim" Jefferson, assistant to Starter McLaughlin, will be yesterday with child and wife. He is the great old "Polo Jim" look like place.

The Exchange stable has purchased of the London stable the two-year-old bay colt by Halo, dam Lady Bird. Terms private.

Cinder Wren Battered Here From the E. & N. S. A. Fla. B. W. P. Co.

DARK FOR GARDNER.

Kate Amos Tells Her Story in the Police Court.

Dr. Parkhurst's Superintendent Took Her to His Home.

Introduced Her to His Wife and Demanded Money.

Her, Charles H. Parkhurst, serene and with unclouded face, sat beside Police Justice McMahon on the Tombs court bench this morning and watched with interest the grinding of that great of human misery, wretchedness and degradation that comes to this mill of justice every day.

The last case of all was that of Charles W. Parkhurst, chief of detectives, who had been charged with the abduction of a woman, charged with bleeding a woman, the keeper of a disorderly house out of two monthly payments of $50 each for protection from arrest, and $100 in a lump for saving her from an indictment and conviction for violating the law.

Dr. Parkhurst did not sit judicially, for he had already pronounced his belief that the arrest and prosecution of Gardner was a move on the part of Sup't. Hyman and the Police Department against his Society in retaliation for their exposures of alleged police incompetence and dishonesty.

Besides the police, eight or ten citizens were there to testify to some part of the facts that are claimed as indications of Gardner's guilt.

Lawyers Frank Moss and Thad R. Keene, of the Executive Committee of the Parkhurst Society, were present to defend Gardner.

Dr. Parkhurst seemed to be not at all in approval of most of the decisions rendered by Justice McMahon, a work that requires more "horse sense" than legal lore; more "human nature" than theoretical learning.

Detective-Sgt. Crowley brought Gardner down from Police House quarters. Gardner wore a silk hat and a shaggy ulster.

He complained that he had not been permitted to communicate with his friends, but admitted that he had not asked any one. He said that he had been in the hands of the police for some time.

Capt. Devary, of the Forty-seventh street station, arrived a little later with Little, who had been in the hands of the police for some time.

She is a handsome woman of thirty-five, with dark hair and a high forehead.

She was hurried into a private room, where Clerk Tom Dineen drew up the complaint against her.

It was past 10 o'clock when Gardner, after a long and painful wait, was arraigned before Justice McMahon.

Dr. Parkhurst had gone.

Capt. Devary, Detective-Sgt. Crowley and Little, who had been in the hands of the police for some time, were present.

She was hurried into a private room, where Clerk Tom Dineen drew up the complaint against her.

It was past 10 o'clock when Gardner, after a long and painful wait, was arraigned before Justice McMahon.

Dr. Parkhurst had gone.

Capt. Devary, Detective-Sgt. Crowley and Little, who had been in the hands of the police for some time, were present.

She was hurried into a private room, where Clerk Tom Dineen drew up the complaint against her.

It was past 10 o'clock when Gardner, after a long and painful wait, was arraigned before Justice McMahon.

Dr. Parkhurst had gone.

Capt. Devary, Detective-Sgt. Crowley and Little, who had been in the hands of the police for some time, were present.

PRETTY ELLEN SLAIN.

Miss Newton's Body Found in a Creek Near Mount Vernon.

Belief That She Lost Her Life in Defense of Her Honor.

Her Movements of Yesterday Traced by an "Evening World" Reporter.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Dec. 6.—Coroner Drew's physician, Dr. Smith and Wiley, this noon began a post-mortem examination on the dead body of pretty, nineteen-year-old Ellen Newton, of 1741 Amsterdam Avenue, New York city, who was found drowned yesterday afternoon in the East Chester Creek, near Joe Weber's Hotel "Havenwood-on-the-Sound," over a mile from this city.

Around her waist was tightly tied a cloth line, to the end of which were attached two stones, each weighing 25 pounds.

It is evidently a case of murder, but the motive is yet in doubt.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

It is not improbable that the girl was criminally assaulted and then strangled by her assailant before her body was thrown into the creek.

Whether or not this was the case will be determined by the autopsy to be held this afternoon by Coroner Drew and his assistant, Dr. Smith.

One thing is certain: Although the girl had been missing from her home since Sunday, she was alive and well at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Her body was found about dusk.

As a young woman who was married to a man who had been in the hands of the police for some time, she might be able to find a place for her later, and that if she would leave her address she would be able to find a place for her later.

Ellen replied that she had no address in New York, and returned to Mrs. Meyer's office, where she was in the care of Mr. Keene.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

It is not improbable that the girl was criminally assaulted and then strangled by her assailant before her body was thrown into the creek.

Whether or not this was the case will be determined by the autopsy to be held this afternoon by Coroner Drew and his assistant, Dr. Smith.

One thing is certain: Although the girl had been missing from her home since Sunday, she was alive and well at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Her body was found about dusk.

As a young woman who was married to a man who had been in the hands of the police for some time, she might be able to find a place for her later, and that if she would leave her address she would be able to find a place for her later.

Ellen replied that she had no address in New York, and returned to Mrs. Meyer's office, where she was in the care of Mr. Keene.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

It is not improbable that the girl was criminally assaulted and then strangled by her assailant before her body was thrown into the creek.

Whether or not this was the case will be determined by the autopsy to be held this afternoon by Coroner Drew and his assistant, Dr. Smith.

One thing is certain: Although the girl had been missing from her home since Sunday, she was alive and well at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Her body was found about dusk.

As a young woman who was married to a man who had been in the hands of the police for some time, she might be able to find a place for her later, and that if she would leave her address she would be able to find a place for her later.

Ellen replied that she had no address in New York, and returned to Mrs. Meyer's office, where she was in the care of Mr. Keene.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

WON BY A NOSE.

Blitzen Nipped Flattery on the Post in a Furious Finish.

IT WAS JOCKEY JONES'S DAY.

The Talent Lost Heavily on Kenwood, but Pulled Out on Lallah.

GOVERNMENT RACE TRACK, Dec. 6.—Racing was continued at Guttenberg today, with an excellent card and before a large crowd of enthusiastic sports. The racing promised to be extremely interesting and finished on the head and head only. The track was still in bad condition being soft and deep.

The weather was pleasant and the crowd occupied chairs in the open stand without experiencing any discomfort from cold.

Four horses were withdrawn from the opening race, a selling affair at five furlongs, leaving eleven to race. Starter Caldwell Kenwood was the elder and it looked a good thing for him to defeat the younger starting against him.

The winner turned up in Blackie, an 8 to 1 chance who came along in the stretch and beat out Graylock, a good thing that was demonstrated by the fact that he was in the lead at the post.

Lallah was heavily favored in the second race, and she pulled the talent out of the crowd which Kenwood plunged into in great shape. She won very easily. Polidora had no trouble in beating Herald in the third race.

Blitzen, who has not been seen since that memorable day when he crashed through the wire at the end of the race, was seen at Morris Park, ran in J. Caspary's colors, and applied for employment. She had once worked for Kenwood.

Taylor Kenwood had nothing for her to do, and he directed her to an intelligence office kept by Mr. Meyer, who was in the hands of the police for some time.

Mrs. Meyer sent Ellen to Mrs. George Ward, who was in the hands of the police for some time.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

It is not improbable that the girl was criminally assaulted and then strangled by her assailant before her body was thrown into the creek.

Whether or not this was the case will be determined by the autopsy to be held this afternoon by Coroner Drew and his assistant, Dr. Smith.

One thing is certain: Although the girl had been missing from her home since Sunday, she was alive and well at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Her body was found about dusk.

As a young woman who was married to a man who had been in the hands of the police for some time, she might be able to find a place for her later, and that if she would leave her address she would be able to find a place for her later.

Ellen replied that she had no address in New York, and returned to Mrs. Meyer's office, where she was in the care of Mr. Keene.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

It is not improbable that the girl was criminally assaulted and then strangled by her assailant before her body was thrown into the creek.

Whether or not this was the case will be determined by the autopsy to be held this afternoon by Coroner Drew and his assistant, Dr. Smith.

One thing is certain: Although the girl had been missing from her home since Sunday, she was alive and well at 10 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Her body was found about dusk.

As a young woman who was married to a man who had been in the hands of the police for some time, she might be able to find a place for her later, and that if she would leave her address she would be able to find a place for her later.

Ellen replied that she had no address in New York, and returned to Mrs. Meyer's office, where she was in the care of Mr. Keene.

The girl's father, George Newton, a merchant tailor, of 1741 Tenth Avenue, New York, called on this morning and positively identified the body. He believes his daughter was decoyed to some lonely spot and killed.

It is not improbable that the girl was criminally assaulted and then strangled by her assailant before her body was thrown into the creek.

Our Republican Friends in Congress Are Not as Pretty as They Were, but They Know More.

TRYING ROUNDMAN DAILEY.

Mamie Hannan a Witness Against Him for Assault.

The trial of Roundman Dailey, on the charge of assaulting Mrs. Hannan, mother of the girl on whose charges of criminal assault Dailey was acquitted a few weeks ago, was resumed today.

Mamie Hannan was the first witness to testify. She was called by the State.

Her testimony was that she saw Dailey assault her daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

He testified that he saw Dailey assault his daughter on the morning of the trial.

Dailey's lawyer, Mr. Leonard, called Joseph F. Dailey, of 884 Grand street, as a witness.

SUICIDE IN THE SAN REMO.

Enrique Bregaro Shoots Himself Through the Head.

No Cause Known for the Commission of the Crime.

Enrique Bregaro, a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, committed suicide this morning by shooting himself in the head in his apartment at the San Remo Hotel, seventy-eighth street and Eighth Avenue.

Mr. Bregaro had been apparently in good spirits yesterday, and this morning at 10 o'clock he rose preparatory to going down to his office.

His wife remained in bed. She is in ill health, having sustained an injury to her knee some time ago.

Mr. Bregaro went to the dressing-room when suddenly his wife heard a pistol shot.

Running to the room her husband had just entered, she found him stretched on the floor, a revolver grasped in his hand and a bullet wound in his head.

Dr. H. E. McDowell, the hotel physician, was quickly summoned, but Mr. Bregaro was past human aid. The bullet had entered the brain, and a few minutes afterwards he died.

Enrique Bregaro was forty-six years of age, and was a native of Italy. He had been in this country for some time.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

Mr. Bregaro was a commission merchant of 115 Pearl street, and was a native of Italy.

CONGRESS DULL TO-DAY.

National Quarantine Bill Introduced—President's Message Read.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—In marked contrast with the untiring energy of yesterday was the meeting of the House today. There were few persons in the galleries and upon the floor, the members seemed to have settled into the old routine.

Mr. Hays, of Maryland, introduced a bill for the better protection of commerce and to establish a national quarantine. Referred.

At 12:15 Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

In the Senate, as soon as the Secretary of the Senate had read the message, the President's annual message, which was read by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

At 12:15 Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

In the Senate, as soon as the Secretary of the Senate had read the message, the President's annual message, which was read by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

At 12:15 Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

In the Senate, as soon as the Secretary of the Senate had read the message, the President's annual message, which was read by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

At 12:15 Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

In the Senate, as soon as the Secretary of the Senate had read the message, the President's annual message, which was read by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

At 12:15 Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

In the Senate, as soon as the Secretary of the Senate had read the message, the President's annual message, which was read by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

At 12:15 Mr. Pringle, one of the President's secretaries, was announced and presented the annual message, which Clerk Kerr immediately began to read.

EXTRA. HIS LAST MESSAGE.

President Harrison on the State of the Nation.

AND THE WORK OF FOUR YEARS.

Parting Words for High Tariff November's Verdict Recognized.

Also Continued Work on the New Navy Chief Accomplishments of the Department.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—In his message to Congress, presented today, the President said that he had great satisfaction in being able to say that the general conditions affecting the country were such as to justify the belief that the United States are in the highest degree favorable. A comparison of the existing conditions with those of four years ago, when the President took office, shows that the country has made great progress in all directions.

The total wealth of the country in 1890 was $10,150,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $10,150,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

The total value of railways in the United States in 1890 was $1,000,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $1,000,000,000, an increase of 448 per cent; and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles of track added by the close of the year 1892.

The official returns of the Eleventh Census and those of the Eleventh Census of the United States show that the population of the United States in 1890 was 62,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to 62,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

The total value of the product of the United States in 1890 was $1,000,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $1,000,000,000, an increase of 448 per cent; and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles of track added by the close of the year 1892.

The official returns of the Eleventh Census and those of the Eleventh Census of the United States show that the population of the United States in 1890 was 62,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to 62,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

The total value of the product of the United States in 1890 was $1,000,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $1,000,000,000, an increase of 448 per cent; and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles of track added by the close of the year 1892.

The official returns of the Eleventh Census and those of the Eleventh Census of the United States show that the population of the United States in 1890 was 62,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to 62,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

The total value of the product of the United States in 1890 was $1,000,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $1,000,000,000, an increase of 448 per cent; and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles of track added by the close of the year 1892.

The official returns of the Eleventh Census and those of the Eleventh Census of the United States show that the population of the United States in 1890 was 62,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to 62,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

The total value of the product of the United States in 1890 was $1,000,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $1,000,000,000, an increase of 448 per cent; and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles of track added by the close of the year 1892.

The official returns of the Eleventh Census and those of the Eleventh Census of the United States show that the population of the United States in 1890 was 62,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to 62,000,000, an increase of 287 per cent.

The total value of the product of the United States in 1890 was $1,000,000,000, in 1891 it amounted to $1,000,000,000, an increase of 448 per cent; and it is estimated that there will be about 4,000 miles of track added by the close of the year 1892.

The official returns of the Eleventh Census and those of the Eleventh Census of the United States show that the population of the United States in 1890